I. Introduction

In this capital habeas corpus action, on December 27, 2005, the Court entered an order (docket #48) resolving petitioner's Amended Motion for Leave to Conduct Discovery, granting that motion in part and denying it in part. In the December 27 order, the Court granted petitioner leave to conduct extensive discovery, but narrowed some of petitioner's proposed discovery to some extent, and denied some altogether. Since the issuance of the December 27 order, two further discovery-related motions, and two stipulations, have come before the Court.

22 On January 26, 2006, petitioner filed a motion entitled “Motion for Clarification
23 of Order and for Reconsideration of Order Denying in Part Petitioner’s Amended Discovery Motion”
24 (docket #49) (hereafter “motion for clarification and reconsideration”). Respondents filed a response 25 to that motion on February 8, 2006 (docket #50). Petitioner replied on February 22, 2006 26 (docket #53).

1 Thereafter, on February 13, 2006, the Nevada State Board of Pardons Commissioners 2 (hereafter “Pardons Board”) filed a motion entitled “Motion to Quash or Modify Subpoena in a Civil 3 Case” (docket #51) (hereafter “motion to quash or modify subpoena”). Petitioner responded to that 4 motion on March 10, 2006 (docket #55). There was no reply.

5 Subsequently, on April 17, 2006, two stipulations were filed, one between petitioner
 6 and the Nevada Department of Public Safety, Nevada Division of Parole and Probation (docket #56), 7 and one between petitioner and the Nevada Department of Public Safety, Investigation Division 8 (docket #57).

9 The Court will grant in part and deny in part petitioner’s motion for clarification and 10 reconsideration. The Court will deny the Pardons Board’s motion to quash or modify subpoena.
 11 The Court has approved the stipulation between petitioner and the Division of Parole and Probation.
 12 The Court will not approve the stipulation between petitioner and the Investigation Division.

13 II. Petitioner’s Motion for Clarification and Reconsideration

14 A. Depositions of Stanley Rorex and Dan James

15 In the December 27 order, the Court granted petitioner leave to conduct certain 16 discovery regarding the handling of the clothing of a witness named Ramon Houston, at the 17 Humboldt County Jail on July 4, 1980, the day of the crimes for which petitioner was convicted.
 18 See December 27 Order (docket #48), pp. 15-17.

19 In his motion for clarification and reconsideration, petitioner seeks clarification as to 20 this portion of the Court’s order. Specifically, petitioner seeks clarification as to whether or not the 21 Court granted him leave to depose Stanley Rorex and Dan James. See Motion for Clarification and 22 Reconsideration (docket #49), p. 3. Respondents agree that such clarification is necessary.

23 The Court did intend to authorize the depositions of Rorex and James. See 24 December 27 Order, p. 17, lines 18-21. Therefore, the Court granted petitioner leave to serve 25 subpoenas upon Rorex and James. See December 27 Order, pp. 22 and 23 (granting leave of court 26 for petitioner to serve the subpoenas found at Exhibits 1.42 (Rorex) and 1.53 (James). (Unless

1 otherwise noted, the exhibits referred to in this order are located in the record at docket #24, #25, 2 #26, and #37.)

3 However, some ambiguity arises because the Court did not include a paragraph in the 4 Order limiting the scope of the Rorex and James depositions, as it did with respect to the other 5 authorized depositions. See December 27 Order, p. 13, footnote 11. This omission was inadvertent.
6 The Court appreciates counsel pointing it out and seeking clarification.

7 Pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 60(a), the Court will clarify the 8 December 27 order by reiterating that petitioner may serve the subpoenas found at Exhibits 1.42 and 9 1.53, and by ordering that the depositions of Rorex and James shall be limited to the subjects of the 10 handling of Houston's clothing and their training regarding the processing or handling of potential 11 evidence in general.

12 B. Files of Terry Bonnette's Trial Attorney

13 Terry Bonnette was one of petitioner's co-defendants. See December 27 Order, 14 pp. 2-3. Bonnette is now deceased. See Exhibit A. In his discovery motion, petitioner sought leave 15 of court to serve a subpoena on Bonnette's former attorney, Gary D. Woodbury, commanding 16 disclosure of his files concerning Bonnette. Because petitioner provided no explanation for that 17 request, the Court denied petitioner leave to conduct that discovery. See December 27 Order, 18 pp. 10-11.

19 In his motion for clarification and reconsideration, petitioner makes clear that 20 Woodbury was Bonnette's trial counsel with respect to his criminal prosecution, and he explains that 21 Woodbury's files may contain information corroborating statements made by Bonnette to the effect 22 that certain of petitioner's co-defendants may have been more culpable than petitioner. See Motion
23 for Clarification and Reconsideration, pp. 4-6. The Court finds that petitioner now makes a 24 sufficient showing of good cause for this discovery, and the Court will therefore grant petitioner 25 leave to serve a subpoena on Woodbury for the production of his files concerning Bonnette.

26

1 The Court's ruling in this regard is buttressed by the release apparently signed by 2 Bonnette's surviving wife, authorizing the release of Woodbury's files. See Exhibit A. That exhibit 3 raises at least the possibility that the attorney-client privilege has been waived.

4 The Court does not, however, intend at this time to finally resolve the question of the 5 continuing force of Bonnette's attorney-client privilege. If, despite the release signed by Bonnette's 6 surviving wife, Woodbury asserts the attorney-client privilege and refuses to disclose the files, the 7 Court will determine the validity of the assertion of that privilege after the issue is raised in a 8 procedurally appropriate manner and fully briefed.

9 C. Prosecutor's State Bar Disciplinary Records

10 In his amended discovery motion, petitioner requested leave of court to subpoena 11 from the Nevada State Bar the complete disciplinary records of the prosecutor at his trial, Humboldt 12 County District Attorney Jack T. Bullock II. See Petitioner's Amended Motion for Leave to Conduct
13 Discovery, pp. 27-30. The Court denied that request. See December 27 Order, p. 20. Petitioner 14 now seeks reconsideration of that ruling.

15 The Court finds that petitioner has added nothing new to his argument warranting any 16 alteration of the Court's ruling that he has not shown good cause for this discovery. The Court will 17 deny this portion of petitioner's motion for clarification and reconsideration.

18 III. The Pardons Board's Motion to Quash or Modify Subpoena

19 In the December 27 order, the Court granted petitioner leave to serve a subpoena 20 upon the Pardons Board, for production of information regarding Houston, Bonnette, Hale, and 21 Katherine L. Oldfield. See December 27 Order, pp. 8-10, 21 (the subpoena on the Pardons Board 22 approved by the Court is at Exhibit 1.12). Petitioner served that subpoena, as authorized, and on 23 February 13, 2006, the Pardons Board filed its motion to quash or modify the subpoena.

24 The Pardons Board argues that much of the material sought by the subpoena is 25 confidential. In particular, the Pardons Board argues that parole and probation records are 26 confidential pursuant to NRS 213.1075; that pre-sentence investigation reports are confidential

1 pursuant to NRS 176.156 and 179A.110; that medical and mental health records obtained from the 2 Nevada Department of Corrections (NDOC) are confidential pursuant to NRS 629.068; and that 3 criminal history reports not generated by the NDOC are confidential pursuant to NRS 179A.110.
4 The Pardons Board also asserts that there “may be undercover agent, confidential informant, secret 5 witness, victim information, or other highly sensitive information” in its files, and that it has a duty 6 to keep such material confidential. The Board of Pardons concludes that “[t]he Court should quash 7 or modify the Subpoena in a Civil Case.” The Court will deny the motion of the Pardons Board.

8 Preliminarily, it should be noted that, while the motion filed by the Pardon’s Board 9 is procedurally proper, a motion to quash or modify the subpoena is not necessarily an efficient or 10 effective means of shielding confidential materials from disclosure pursuant to a subpoena. The 11 better practice under these circumstances, in terms of efficiency and protection, is for the party 12 served with the subpoena to respond in a timely manner to the subpoena and disclose any non-13 controversial responsive material along with a privilege log listing the material claimed to be 14 privileged or confidential. Then, if the subpoenaing party wishes to contest the assertions of 15 privilege or confidentiality, that party can move to enforce the subpoena. This approach narrows the 16 litigation and focuses it on specific material. The Court can then better consider the applicability of 17 the asserted privileges in light of more specific information concerning the nature of the withheld 18 material, as well as the efficacy of any limitations or conditions to be imposed.

19 It is important to keep in mind that state privilege statutes are of limited application in 20 federal court in federal question cases. See Breed v. United States District Court, 542 F.2d 1114, 21 1115 (9th Cir. 1976); see also Pearson v. Miller, 211 F.3d 57, 61 (3d Cir. 2000). State privilege 22 statutes are not controlling; however, to the extent they would be applicable, and to the extent the 23 policies behind them are compelling, the Court may take them into consideration in exercising its 24 discretion over this discovery dispute.

25
26

1 With respect to the Pardons Board's arguments based on NRS 179A.110 and 2 213.1075, it is notable that those statutes contain exceptions for disclosures authorized by a court 3 order.

4 Moreover, it is notable that petitioner has submitted, as exhibits attached to his 5 opposition to the motion to quash or modify subpoena, releases signed by Houston, Hale, Katherine 6 L. Oldfield, and Bonnette's surviving spouse. See Exhibits 2, 3, 4, and 5 to Opposition to Motion to 7 Quash or Modify Subpoena. Those releases are comprehensive, authorizing release of, among other 8 things, academic, correctional, employment, law enforcement, medical, psychological, psychiatric, 9 and probation and rehabilitation records, as well as files prepared in connection with criminal 10 litigation. Those releases largely undermine the confidentiality concerns behind the Nevada statutes 11 relied upon by the Pardons Board. The Pardons Board did not file a reply, and did not respond in 12 any manner to those releases.

13 Finally, the Court notes that, although the Pardon's Board's motion seeks to quash 14 or modify the subpoena, the Pardons Board does not describe any suggested modification.

15 Taking all of these considerations into account, the Court will deny the Pardons
16 Board's motion, and the Court will set a schedule for the Pardons Board to comply with petitioner's 17 subpoena.

18 If the Pardons Board finds that there is, among the responsive materials, "undercover 19 agent, confidential informant, secret witness, victim information, or other highly sensitive 20 information," and if the Pardons Board withholds such material, or any other material, from 21 production pursuant to the subpoena, the Pardons Board should produce a privilege log, in 22 compliance with Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 45(d)(2), specifying the sort of material withheld 23 and the basis for withholding it.

1 IV. The Stipulation Between Petitioner and the Division of Parole and Probation

2 Pursuant to the Court's December 27, 2005 order, petitioner served a subpoena upon 3 the Nevada Department of Public Safety, Nevada Division of Parole and Probation. Apparently, 4 disputes arose regarding that subpoena.

5 On April 17, 2006, petitioner filed a stipulation between himself and the Division of 6 Parole and Probation, regarding the latter's compliance with his subpoena (docket #56). The 7 stipulation provides that material turned over to petitioner by the Division shall be kept confidential
8 by petitioner's counsel. According to the stipulation, after petitioner's counsel receive the material, 9 petitioner's counsel will review the material to determine which documents "are relevant to 10 petitioner's pending § 2254 habeas litigation," and will then "request leave of this Court to use any 11 such documents for litigation purposes." According to the stipulation, such leave is to be requested 12 by a motion made under seal. The stipulation provides that petitioner's counsel "shall redact all 13 victim, confidential informant, and confidential witness identifying information for which this Court 14 grants [petitioner's counsel] leave to use." Stipulation (docket #56), pp. 2-3.

15 It appears that the procedure established by the stipulation will likely result in what 16 will in essence be an in camera inspection of documents. The Court generally disfavors the 17 resolution of discovery disputes in capital habeas corpus cases by means of in camera inspections, 18 unless the in camera inspection is absolutely necessary, unless the parties limit to the extent possible
19 the material to be submitted, and unless standards guiding the Court's inspection have been agreed 20 upon, or, at least, fully briefed by the parties.

21 The Court has determined that under the circumstances, the process set up by the 22 stipulation is acceptable. Because petitioner's counsel will initially inspect the material, the Court is 23 confident that the in camera inspection will be limited to only material with some relevance to 24 petitioner's claims; it appears that the Court will not be required to cull through material with no 25 relevance whatsoever to the case. Also, the process devised by the parties provides for briefing to 26 be submitted under seal to guide the Court's inspection. This will serve to inform the Court of the 1 parties' positions with respect to the standards that the Court should apply in determining what 2 portions of the material are discoverable.

3 Under these circumstances, the Court finds the stipulation between petitioner and the 4 Division of Parole and Probation to be acceptable. Accordingly, the Court has approved that 5 stipulation. See Order on Stipulation (docket #58), filed April 18, 2006.

6 V. The Stipulation Between Petitioner and the Investigation Division

7 Pursuant to the Court's December 27, 2005 order, petitioner also served a subpoena
8 upon the Nevada Department of Public Safety, Investigation Division. Apparently, disputes arose
9 regarding that subpoena as well, and on April 17, 2006, petitioner filed a stipulation between himself 10 and the Investigation Division regarding the latter's compliance with the subpoena (docket #57).

11 The stipulation between petitioner and the Investigation Division contrasts with the 12 one between petitioner and the Division of Parole and Probation. The stipulation involving the 13 Investigation Division simply provides that the Division is to "promptly produce all documents 14 relevant to the subpoena duces tecum to this Court for in camera inspection before such documents 15 are passed on to petitioner's counsel." Stipulation (docket #57), p. 1, lines 24-26. The stipulation 16 provides no indication of the nature or volume of the material to be submitted, and it does not 17 indicate what privileges will be at issue or what standards the Court is to apply in conducting the 18 inspection. The stipulation does not indicate that the Investigation Division has produced a privilege 19 log regarding the material responsive to the subpoena, or that non-controversial material has been 20 turned over to petitioner's counsel. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 45(d)(2).

21 The question whether to conduct an in camera review of documents is within the 22 discretion of the Court. See United States v. Zolin, 491 U.S. 554, 570-72 (1989). The burden on 23 the Court is a valid consideration in that exercise of discretion. Id. at 571. Under the circumstances 24 here, the Court will not approve the stipulation between petitioner and the Investigation Division 25 and will not prospectively authorize the ill-defined inspection of documents envisioned by that 26 stipulation.

1 Petitioner and the Investigation Division must make a good-faith effort to resolve
2 their discovery disputes without the need for an in camera inspection of documents. If the parties 3 cannot resolve their differences, the parties must attempt to narrow their disputes, to identify the 4 material at issue and the privileges that allegedly shield it from disclosure. The first step in this 5 process is for the Investigation Division to disclose noncontroversial responsive material and to 6 produce a privilege log with respect to any material withheld from disclosure. Beyond that, the 7 parties might consider a stipulation similar to that entered between petitioner and the Division of 8 Parole and Probation.

9 IT IS THEREFORE ORDERED that petitioner's Motion for Clarification
10 of Order and for Reconsideration of Order Denying in Part Petitioner's Amended Discovery Motion 11 (docket #49) is GRANTED IN PART AND DENIED IN PART. The Court clarifies and 12 reconsiders its December 27, 2006 order (docket #48) as described below; in all other respects, 13 petitioner's motion is denied.

14 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that the Court clarifies its December 27, 2005 Order 15 as follows: petitioner is granted leave of court to serve subpoenas on Stanley Rorex and Ralph Dan 16 James in the form found in Exhibit 1.42 (Rorex) and Exhibit 1.53 (James); petitioner's depositions
17 of Stanley Rorex and Ralph Dan James shall be limited in scope to the subjects of (1) the handling 18 of Ramon Houston's clothing, and (2) their training regarding the processing or handling of 19 potential evidence in general.

20 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that the Court reconsiders, and amends, its 21 December 27, 2005, Order (docket #48), as follows: petitioner is granted leave of court to serve a 22 subpoena on Gary D. Woodbury in the form found in Exhibit A (docket #37).

23 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that the Motion to Quash or Modify Subpoena in a 24 Civil Case (docket #51), filed by the Nevada State Board of Pardons Commissioners, is DENIED.
25 The Nevada State Board of Pardons Commissioners shall comply with petitioner's subpoena on or 26 before May 19, 2006.

1 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that the stipulation between petitioner and the 2 Nevada Department of Public Safety, Investigation Division, filed on April 17, 2006 3 (docket #57) SHALL NOT BE APPROVED BY THE COURT.

4 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that, in view of the litigation of these motions, 5 the time for petitioner to complete all authorized discovery is extended to and including 6 September 1, 2006, and the time for petitioner to file and serve an amended petition is extended to 7 and including December 1, 2006. In all other respects, the provisions of the Second Scheduling 8 Order entered August 20, 2003 (docket #15) shall remain in effect.
